Thai Herbs

Thai Basil is a type of basil native to Southeast Asia that has been cultivated to provide distinctive traits. Thai basil has small, narrow leaves, purple stems, and pink-purple flowers.

Galangal is also known as Thai ginger. It's commonly found in Thai, Indonesian, and Malaysian cooking. The skin of galangal is smoother and paler than ginger and its flesh is much harder. The flavour of galangal is much stronger and earthy, sharp and extra citrusy.

Lemongrass also known as citronella grass is a perennial grass that grows in tropical climates. A stalk of lemongrass consists of a pink base, a few tough green husks, and a white core, which is used in cooking. The flavour of lemongrass is characterized by mild citrus notes.

Kaffir Lime Leaf is a key ingredient in Thai cooking as well as other Southeast-Asian cuisines. It is probably one of the most aromatic of all herbs and a wonderful addition to many Thai and Southeast-Asian soups, curries, and stir-fries. The thick leaves are dark green and shiny on one side, and pale on the back and porous on the other.

Krachai has finger-like rhizomes, shoots with up to four leaves, and a spike of white or pink flowers with a pink –spotted white lip. Yellow-fleshed rhizome flavours Thai food including soups, fish dishes, and curries. They are also used to reduce flatulence and to treat diarrheal, dysentery, and worms. The fleshy roots are cylindrical to spindle in shape, yellowish brown in colour and are arranged at right angle to the rhizome.
